1.5 T MRI OF THE PELVIS (P + C)

Clinical profile: USG uterine fibroids

Scan protocol: Multiplanar, multiecho MR of pelvis was performed. Post-contrast imaging was also performed. VIVID SCAN 10 ml of IV contrast was administered, and no contrast-related reactions were noted.

Findings:

The urinary bladder is semi distended.

The uterus is enlarged in size measures 12.3 x 9 x 11.4 cm in size.

A large ill-defined heterogeneous lobulated fibroid lesion noted involving right lateral, right anterior and posterior wall of uterus causing compression and displacement of endometrial canal towards left side.

This lesion measures 9.6 x 11.4 x 3.7 cm in size show any heterogeneous internal septations and fluid signal within. It has well defined T2 hypointense capsule along it.

On post-contrast images it shows significant heterogeneous enhancement within.

It is also compressing the urinary bladder anteriorly and rectosigmoid junction posteriorly. Endometrium measures 5 mm. Transition zone measures up to 11 mm.

Right ovary measures 26 x 13 x 15 mm left ovary measures 24 x 32 x 21 mm in size.

There is evidence of haemorrhagic cyst with T2 hypointense and T1 hyperintense content with fluid level within noted in the left ovary measuring 21 x 20 x 18 mm size

No adnexal mass is seen on the right side.

Bilateral adnexal vessels are dilated and tortuous more on the left side.

The visualised bones of the pelvis appear normal. No evidence of a significant joint effusion or any other abnormality is seen.

Subtle patchy areas of STIR hyperintensity noted along inferior aspect of bilateral SI joints.

Accn No. : 56242931

The muscles of the pelvis and upper thighs show normal appearance. No evidence of any mass lesion or lymphadenopathy is noted. The femoral neurovascular bundles appear normal bilaterally.

IMPRESSION:

- Enlarged uterus with large encapsulated heterogeneous enhancing fibroid as mentioned above. Mass effect on the adjacent structures as described above.
- Small haemorrhagic cyst in the left ovary.
- Findings suggestive of bilateral pelvic congestion.

Suggested clinico-pathological correlation and follow-up.
